Transformed the bank into a digital platform

People's Bank Sri Lanka, a state owned commercial bank, wanted to transform itself into a fresh digital bank platform to serve and attract millennials through channel transformation, provide straight through processing of transactions, and streamline front and back office fulfilment through process re-engineering.

Implemented a fintech banking platform to support a digital branch network

The bank used the Silverlake Fintech Banking Platform and developed a digital branch concept, which allowed service bankers to on-board customers through Wi-Fi enabled devices in less than ten minutes. This allowed the bank to issue debit cards and activate customers' accounts instantly, as well as provide customers with a cardless cash withdrawal facility through mobile phones. It has developed 52 digital branches with 150 agents and People's Bank plans to extend the number of these branches by the end of the year.

Enabling digitisation the bank also introduced service banking unit (SBU) kiosks that included automated teller machines (ATM), and cash deposit machine (CDM) with different features such as bill payments. It also launched a new mobile app and internet banking system.

Achieved improvements in operational efficiency and risk management

Because of the digitisation, the bank reduced the time needed to open accounts through a completely paperless process, from over two days to less than ten minutes. Teller efficiency improved by 50% and marketing campaigns and cross sell rose by 30%. Furthermore, risk management became completely automated with a digitised set of rules. ATM and CDM transactions also rose by 65% and 700%, respectively from April to December 2017, through SBUs.

Channel transformation delivered an integrated and seamless experience

People's Bank's comprehensive digital implementation end to end, across channels through an integrated experience, transformed its banking operations. This gave users a quick and easy banking experience from account opening, loan origination, mobile banking to internet banking.
